civil war

The American Civil War was a war between the Union (Northern US States) and the Confederacy (Southern US States) that lasted from 1861 to 1865

The war was fought over disagreements about slavery, states' rights, the election of Abraham Lincoln, and the economy.

The war left the South economically devastated and resulted in the criminalization of slavery in the United States. Confederate General Lee surrendered to U.S. General Grant in the spring of 1865, officially ending the war.

cold war history

The Cold War was a period of conflict between the United States and the Soviet Union that lasted from the end of World War II until 1991. The two superpowers competed for dominance in politics, economics, science, and technology, but never directly fought each other.

Instead, they supported opposing sides in proxy wars and increased their military capabilities.

The Cold War ended in 1991 when the Soviet Union dissolved. The Soviet Union's new leader, Mikhael Gorbachev, proposed reforms to stimulate the communist economy and relaxed restrictions on freedom of expression. The Berlin Wall came down in 1989 and 1990, and free elections ousted Communist regimes in eastern Europe.
